Time & Location: Wednesdays, periods 3-5 (9:35-12:35) 376 Grinter Hall

Instructor: Jonathan Dain: 388 Grinter Hall (352) 273-4713 or 1193 McCarty A (352) 294-7697
jdain@latam.ufl.edu

Office hours: TBA & by appointment

Course Vision: Create spaces where participants can strengthen core communication and leadership skills for supporting collaborative approaches to Development and Conservation practice

Evaluation (see activity descriptions):
- Class participation: 25%
- PBworks online readings discussion: 15%
- Learning Journal: 15%
- Leadership/Communication Interview and report: 15%
- Group Practicum: 30%

Learning Approach
- Focus on building practical skills and systematic reflection
- Experiential, "blended" learning spaces
- Teaching methods are designed to reflect elements of a collaborative, facilitative approach to working with people
- “Adaptive Teaching” – we will not stray from the core vision of the course but may adapt sessions and/or readings based on participant needs and interests. Students will be given advance notice of any changes.
- Context for activities and discussion is primarily (not exclusively) Development and/or Conservation practice in the Americas & Africa
- Focus on personal and professional development

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS
Communication and Leadership Skills for Development Practice

Students will be evaluated based upon five sets of activities, each of which will be explained in more detail in class:

I. Class participation (25%): Attendance is critical. One excused absence is allowed although not encouraged. Additional missed classes* mean a drop in grade. Students are required to critically read all assigned materials prior to class and participate actively (to be defined) during in-class discussions, on-line discussions and in small/large group activities including simulations and role plays. Each student will meet individually with the instructor two times during the semester (August/September, November/December). [*non-emergency]

II. On-Line PBworks facilitated discussion (15%):
   1. PBworks: The learning that takes place in class and through readings is greatly enhanced by active discussion. Unfortunately, a once-per-week class rarely allows adequate time for dialogue. To better take advantage of the activities and readings selected, students will engage in web-based reflection and discussion, sometimes responding to specifically posed questions, other times reacting to the thoughts of others. Each week two students will serve as on-line facilitators of discussion and will determine its format. It is expected that participants will review everyone’s on-line postings before each Wednesday class; during class facilitators will provide a short (5-20 min) summary of the PBworks discussion. Back and forth dialogue is strongly encouraged on PBworks and postings should reflect your reaction to how readings relate to class themes and/or to experiences you may have had:
      • Ex: “Wollenberg’s comment on gender hit home to me; while working in Tierra del Fuego I found that despite numerous visits and careful planning, women deferred to men during workshop discussions even if they had primary expertise in the subject; it was frustrating. What could I have done about that?”
   Postings should not be summaries of readings:
      • Ex: “Kaner lists five ways to encourage dialogue, they are: 1) Provide a…”.

As always in such discussions, follow the basic rule of thumb: “Tough on issues, soft on people”

III. Learning Journal (15%): (LJs) are designed to help you and I monitor your learning during the semester. Unlike PBworks discussions, learning journals focus on “Ah-ha moments” and key questions, observations and experiences.
Reflections can be inspired by readings, class activities, participation in non-course related activities, talking or listening to someone, writing, or simply thinking (e.g. “I realized today that the dynamics of my graduate committee are more complex than I had imagined…”). Learning journal thoughts are to be recorded and turned in weekly (by Friday at noon). During the semester there may be expanded Learning Journal “reflection assignments”, usually before, the “Individual meetings”. LJs should be submitted electronically as a word file to jdain@latam.ufl.edu.

IV. Leadership Interview and Report (15%): Students, in pairs, will interview a “Leader” (NGO, Government, Program/Project, University, Religious), discuss it and write up a report (each individual student will prepare their own individual 2-3 page report even though the interview will be carried out in pairs) detailing the interview and lessons learned about communication strategies and skills. The interview can be in person or, if necessary, via telephone/Skype.

V. Group Practicum (30%): The members of the class, in groups, are responsible for conceptualizing, designing and implementing a “Practicum” event for fellow graduate students (or other groups if approved by the instructor) using concepts, tools and skills from class. The proposed “due” date is mid-November. The nature and focus of the Practicum is to be defined in consultation with the instructor and other relevant sources. It may involve Teaching, Convening (a discussion or set of discussions) or an Advocacy project. Throughout the semester leading up to the practicum, students are responsible for developing, discussing and turning in a needs or situation/stakeholder assessments, a process design, an evaluation plan and other materials related to the event. TO BE DISCUSSED IN CLASS.

University Policies

The University of Florida Honor Code, signed by all students upon registration, states: We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity. “In adopting this Honor Code, the students of the University of Florida recognize that academic honesty and integrity are fundamental values of the University community. Students who enroll at the University commit to holding themselves and their peers to the high standard of honor required by the Honor Code. Any individual who becomes aware of a violation of the Honor Code is bound by honor to take corrective action.” (Student Handbook). In this course, students are expected and encouraged to work together. Plagiarism of written sources without proper citation is of course forbidden. Students with disabilities are entitled to classroom accommodation. Please register with the Dean of Students Office in Peabody hall, who will provide documentation that the student will then provide to the Instructor when requesting accommodation. The University of Florida has excellent counseling services available on campus for students having personal problems or needing help in defining career and academic goals pursuant to good academic performance. These resources include:
