COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is meant as a broad introduction to various issues related to the phenomenon of (im)migration in post WWII Europe. In recent years, migration has become defined as one of the most pressing “problems” facing the European Union. But how does/ did (im)migration affect nation states in Europe in the present, and in the past? What “spaces” do nations provide for the formal or informal inclusion of migrants, and how does migration challenge the concept and institution of citizenship? Is the nation and national belonging an outdated concept, and should we think more in terms of transnational societies and solidarities? How accurate is the idea that European unification has resulted in a “fortress Europe” that systematically excludes non-European Others, and causes thousands of deaths each year along Europe’s points of entry such as the Mediterranean and Aegean Seas?

How can we understand and conceptualize different histories and trajectories of migration in Europe? What is “illegal” or irregular migration? Why are refugees often considered “illegal” migrants? How do human rights apply to the plight of refugees? How is migration in Europe related to histories of colonialism, the context of globalization, the process of European unification? How do race, gender, religion and class intersect in the experience of migration? What is the relation between immigration and ethnic residential segregation, spatial exclusion and ghetto formation, and urban unrest? How is immigrant and ethnic culture/ identity “different” and how does it express itself, in film, music, literature? Why is there a European wide backlash against migration and multiculturalism in general, and Muslim migrants in particular? Why has wearing the “veil” become such a controversial issue?

The course is divided thematically, and tries to compare different European national, regional, supra-national and global contexts. We use film, music, and literature to unravel some of political and sociological aspects of the immigrant experience and to illustrate the concepts outlined and explained in the (more academically inclined) course readings.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:
This is a concept driven course. We will develop a conceptual apparatus to understand how cities are structured and have changed over time. Students will be evaluated on their familiarity with these concepts in their reading logs, midterm and research papers.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

ATTENDANCE AND PREPARATION:

Reading/Preparation:
This course will be conducted in seminar format. That means that each student is expected to come to each session prepared to discuss the readings assigned for that session. Reading for the course will be posted on the Sakai website for the course. The readings need to be completed on the day the reading is assigned in order to facilitate class discussion.

To make sure that you keep up with the assigned reading, you are required to keep a reading journal. I will check your logs a few times per semester, on announcement, and grade it with a v-, v, or v+. The reading log should identify and explain three KEY concepts in each reading. In addition, in the reading log you can engage with the reading in any way you would like.

Readings will be posted on the UF e-learning system (CANVAS)

Attendance:
Please note that class attendance is required for this course and constitutes 10% of your grade. You will be permitted 2 unexcused absences, after which you loose ALL your attendance points if you are absent without proper reason and documentation. I will circulate an attendance sheet, which you should sign. Signing for others is considered academic dishonesty. Repeated absences may affect your performance on exams and assignments.

According to the Office of the Registrar, “acceptable reasons for absence from class include illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements, military obligation, severe weather conditions, religious holidays and participation in official university activities such as music performances, athletic competition or debate. Absences from class for court-imposed legal obligations (e.g. jury duty or subpoena) must be excused.”

Written Assignments:
Students will have to pass a (take home) midterm exam and hand in a research paper (7-8 pp.) on a topic of their own choice at the end of the term. Students will hand in a first draft (with bibliography), and a final draft of the paper. Only the final draft will be graded, however, if you do NOT hand in a draft on time, I will deduct 5 points from your final grade.

Due Dates:
Midterm Take Home Exam: March 14
Due Date Draft Research Paper: April 9
Due Date Research Paper: April 30

Grade Composition:
Attendance: 10%
Participation and Reading Log: 10%
Midterm Exam (take home): 40%
Final Research Paper: 40%

COURSE EVALUATION
Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at https://evaluations.ufl.edu.

Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at Plagiarism:
Please be advised that plagiarism is in violation of the University of Florida’s regulations and maybe grounds for dismissal from the course. If you are in doubt about what constitutes plagiarism, address these questions to the instructor. The Honor Code (https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct/honor-code/) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel.

STUDENTS REQUIRING ACCOMMODATIONS
Students with Disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.
