COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course investigates gender relations and roles in the Arab world over the span of Arab’s known history, focusing on representative as well as transitional moments. It explores the ways Arab women and men have negotiated—and continue to negotiate—cultural, social, economic, political, and religious roles and influences. The course seeks also to challenge prevalent stereotypes that characterize Western perceptions of Arab women and gain more nuanced understandings of complex realities.

The course uses textual sources supplemented by audio-visual materials. The first week will provide a general framework for the course, raising some of the questions that we will address during the rest of the semester and delineating the course’s main goals and direction. In subsequent weeks we will follow a combined thematic and chronological organization, whereby each thematic section follows an internal chronological order. The course’s five major themes are:

Section 1: Women in Literature
Section 2: Women in Art
Section 3: Women in Social and Economic Lives
Section 4: Women in Religion and Religious Scholarship
Section 5: Women in Politics.
The fifth section will end with a discussion of Leila Ahmed's book, A Quiet Revolution: The Veil's Resurgence, from the Middle East to America, focusing on the political dimension of the veil.

Reading and audio-visual assignments:

All readings and most audio-visual material for this course are in English. When audio-visual material is untranslated, the aim is only to observe the performance, not to understand the content.

The typical reading load is one article/chapter per session. Reading assignments for double-block sessions will typically be divided among two or more groups. Students are required to carefully complete all readings and audio-visual assignments before coming to class, be ready to give detailed summaries, point out important themes, and lead in-depth discussions of their assignments.

There will be several pop quizzes to test the depth of your engagement with class discussions and assigned material. Please note that our main class activity consists of discussions of assigned materials. Failure to complete assignments will cause major disruption to the class and have detrimental impact on your final grade.

Writing assignments:

There will be four 1000-word long writing assignments for students who are taking this course to satisfy the Gen Ed Writing requirement. Prompt questions will be posted on Canvas two weeks prior to each essay’s due date. Please consult the grading rubric (below) for more on this point. Students who do not need to satisfy this requirement will be assigned one mid-term and one final exam outside class time.

Presentations:

All students are to give 15-minute presentations followed by questions and answers. Most presentations are scheduled at the end of the semester, but some may be scheduled... earlier. The aim of these presentations is to allow you to research a course-related theme of your choice and share the results with your classmates. Students must discuss their presentation topics with me no later than the eighth week of the semester.

There will also be short (5-minute) presentations with the aim of introducing important figures and events. Credit for this activity will be incorporated in your general attendance and participation grade.

ATTENDANCE

You are allowed three fifty-minute session absences (equivalent of one week). Beyond this, any unexcused absence will cause your course grade to drop by one scale (example: if your grade for the course is A, with one unexcused absence it becomes A-, if it is A- it becomes B+). If you miss class for a valid reason you have to bring in a supporting document (for example: a doctor's note). If you plan to miss class to observe a religious holiday, make sure to notify me beforehand. Please note: once you have used up your three complimentary absences, you will not be allowed additional ones, regardless of what excuses you may give me. Note also that three late arrivals (five or more minutes after class begins) count as one absence.

Grading (Gen Ed Writing requirement)

Writing assignments: 40% (10% each)
Presentation: 15%
Quizzes: 15%
Class participation: 30%

Grading (No Gen Ed Writing requirement)

Midterm: 20%
Final: 20%

Violations of the honor code include, but are not limited to: plagiarism, cheating, bribery, misrepresentation, fabrication, and conspiracy. Such violations may result in the following: lowering of grades, mandatory 0 on assignments, redoing assignments, a final failing grade in the course, expulsion from the course, referral to the student-run Honor Court. The Honor Code states: “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity.” On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment. For more information, refer to: http://www.dso.ufl.edu/Academic_Honesty.html
