General Call for Papers

FLYM 2020

6th Florida Linguistics Yearly Meeting
University of Florida - Gainesville, Florida
March 13-14, 2020

Keynote Speakers
Professor Andries Coetzee (University of Michigan)
and
Professor Lawrence Solan (Brooklyn Law School)

Deadline for abstract submission: December 31, 2019

The Linguistics Department at the University of Florida invites you to attend the Florida Linguistics Yearly Meeting, to be held March 13-14th, 2020. FLYM is an annual event which aims to bring together professionals, experts and graduate students to share current research in Linguistics. This year, we celebrate 50 years of linguistics at UF. Consistent with the strengths of the UF Linguistics Department, we encourage submissions in the core areas of linguistics, experimental linguistics, sociolinguistics, and language documentation, though abstracts in other areas are welcome.

We invite abstracts for FLYM 2020 for 20-minute oral presentation (plus 10 minutes for discussion) or a poster presentation. Abstracts should not exceed one page, 12 point single-spaced, with an optional additional page for references and data.

Submissions should be anonymous and submitted through our EasyAbs portal: http://linguistlist.org/easyabs/FLYM2020

Please visit the conference website for more information: https://lin.ufl.edu/flym2020/