Please type or use uppercase letters

The Political Science Junior Fellows Program pairs faculty and graduate students in the dissertation- writing stage with advanced and highly qualified undergraduate students seeking to supplement their formal training with one-on-one research experience. Competitive students will have Senior and Junior standing with a minimum 3.5 GPA and have demonstrated their interest in political science through their coursework. All applicants must submit this application form along with a CV or resume and a one-page statement explaining why they would like to be a Junior Fellow, the sorts of research topics/methods they are interested in, and what they would like to get out of the research collaboration. Faculty may nominate past and current students to take part in the Junior Fellow Program - especially if they have a student in mind with whom they would like to work. Open pool applicants will be matched on a competitive basis and according to the research needs of the Department. Junior Fellows will be appointed for one semester but may continue to work with their assigned professor/graduate student as long as both agree -or- they may reapply to work with another professor/graduate student. Applications are due April 15 for the Fall semester and November 15 for the Spring semester. You may hand-in or send applications to the Program Director, Angela McCarthy (angelamccarthy@ufl.edu).
