For more than 30 years, Hip Hop has been one of the most significant cultural identifiers for youth in the United States. Through a close examination of critical feminist and queer theory, this course explores the cultural and political implications of hip hop music and culture - specifically its impact on Black sexual politics and gender performance. Also important to this course is an exploration of the ways that Hip Hop projects images of the black body across national and global scales. The task of this course is to foster a critical discussion about the implications of these images, in addition to analyzing how these projections of the black imago are interpreted and refracted globally. Important queries that will reverberate throughout the semester include:

- Is it possible to be a Hip Hop feminist?
- What is different when women make the music?
- How has Hip Hop influenced and (re)shaped the ways that Black bodies are cast, on both national and global scales?
- Can Hip Hop be utilized as a feminist political tool?
- How does Hip Hop create spaces that disturb the boundaries of racialized sexuality and gender?
- Is Hip Hop queer?
- What are the key tensions and vibrant intersections between Hip Hop music and queerness?
- What are the structural and societal implications for the commodification and consumption of the Black body?

Obscene and Offensive Material: In this course, you will be required to listen to, view, and analyze offensive materials, including language and imagery that is obscene, sexist, homophobic, or racist, and descriptions of sexual conduct and violence. The instructor, the African American Studies Program, the Anthropology Department, nor the university share in the opinions of the artists who created these works. However, it is important to understand that these materials elucidate issues, debates, and controversies that are essential to this course; therefore, no suitable substitutions are available, and none will be provided.
By continuing with this course, you are agreeing to be held academically accountable for all required materials in the syllabus, regardless of their offensive nature. Students who are unwilling either to hear or think critically about such materials are advised not to continue with the course.

Required Texts

Cohen, Cathy J.

Morgan, Joan

Pough, Gwendolyn, Elaine Richardson, Aisha Durham, and Rachel Raimist, eds.

Rose, Trida.

Suggested Texts

Chang, Jeff

Attendance: Attendance will be taken in each class each day. Students are expected to come to class having read carefully the reading assignments for that session. They should be prepared to contribute to class discussions by raising questions and comments related to the topic for that class. Students are allowed (2) unexcused absences for the semester, every successive absence will negatively impact their final grade (1/2 letter grade for each subsequent absence.) Absences for religious holidays, illness, and official university business are excused, but proper notification must be provided (in advance if possible.)

Evaluations: Final course grades will be calculated though a combination of:

- Attendance and Class participation (20%): Students are expected to come to class having carefully read the reading assignments for that session. They should be prepared to contribute to class discussions by raising questions and comments related to the topic for that class.

- Discussion Posts (40%): In order to ensure an active and engaged class, this course requires students to read the materials outlined in the syllabus. Therefore, all students are responsible for submitting a weekly response to the readings by 11:59PM each Wednesday, in the online discussion forum. Each entry should not be between 400 and 500 words, and express a meaningful, critical summary/commentary on those readings. Students are required to submit 10 posts over the course of the semester. Late posts will not be given credit.

- Panel Discussion (20%): Every Tuesday, a student panel will present comments and/or questions and lead discussion of the readings in class for at least an hour. This assignment is intended to bring in whatever insights students wish to contribute, based on the readings, class discussions, online discussion forum, and their own experiences and observations. Students can include videos, news articles, and additional materials. Panel member(s) will evaluate a significant portion of your grade.

- Take Home Final Exam (20%): The final exam will be distributed at the end of the semester as a take-home exam in essay format. Students will be given a list of questions, of which they choose three (3) to answer. Each answer should be at least three (3) double-spaced pages in length. Students will have one week to complete the exam and are expected to use class notes, course discussions and outside sources.

Additional Course Information:

Academic Honesty: Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. As a registered student in this course and at the University of Florida, you have agreed to the following statement:

"I understand that the University of Florida expects its students to be honest in all their academic work. I agree to adhere to this commitment to academic honesty and understand that my failure to comply with this commitment may result in disciplinary action up to and including expulsion from the University."

If you are caught plagiarizing, you will receive a zero on the assignment and will be referred to University administration for disciplinary action. If you have any doubt with citing correctly, please ask the instructor for guidance. You can also refer to the University's Honor Code for more information regarding university policies at: http://www.registrar.ufl.edu/catalog/policies/students.html. Please don't plagiarize.

Student Conduct: All students must comply with the Student Conduct Code, which can found at http://www.dso.ufl.edu/studentguide/studentconductcode.php. Behavior that interferes with the instructor's ability to conduct the class or the ability of other students to benefit from the instructional program will not be tolerated. Please silence/vibrate cell phones and all other electronic devices before class. Laptops may only be used to take notes (i.e. please wait until the end of class to check your Facebook and Twitter).

Disability Accommodations: Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Dean of Students Office. The Dean of Students Office will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the instructor when requesting accommodation. The Disability Resource office is located in 001 Reid Hall. Further information can be found at www.dso.ufl.edu/drp.
