Description
This course explores the dynamic multi-religious landscape of the US with special focus on Global Christianities, Muslim, Buddhist and Hindu traditions in the most recent period of post-1965 immigration. Over the past fifty years the ethnic composition of the United States has changed with the arrival of new immigrants from Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East. What changes have taken place in the religious landscape of America’s cities and neighborhoods? How have new religious traditions changed and been changed by American society? How have the second generation of new immigrants made religious sense of their Americanization? And what are the implications of this changed religious landscape for American culture and society?
The method employed to answer these questions will combine classroom discussions and field work. In the classroom, students will become familiar with recent ethnographic reports of new immigrants’ religious adaptations to the American environment. Using Gainesville as our field, students will several times go out and visit sites of religious worship created by these newcomers, describe and seek to explain their religious practices, enter into relationship with people whose national and religious backgrounds are likely different from their own, and through this process seek to cross over into understanding alternative points of view. Back in the classroom, students will report on their experiences while working together to understand the significance of this growing diversity for American culture and society.

Course Requirements
Attendance and Participation(20%)
A very high participation grade (18-20) is earned by attending almost every class, making comments and asking questions that show that you have completed the readings and listening to your classmates and professor. A good A&P (15-17) grade is earned by attending at least 75% of the classes and participating every day, but not necessarily making it clear that you have done the readings and/or listened to others. An A&P grade of 14/20 (70%) is earned by attending fewer than 75% of the classes (no matter what kind of comments are made).

Response Paper - 2 pages (5%) – Due September 10th. See syllabus.

Field Report - 5 pages (15%)
Each student will write a field report on an immigrant worship site. These will be assigned prior to the fourth week of class (September 10th) and will be due during the week that your assigned group is being studied. Instructions for this report are provided at the end of the syllabus.

Ethnography - 8 pages (30%)
Each student will research and write an ethnographic paper on one immigrant worship site (different from the site assigned for the Field Report). First draft due Tuesday, November 26th. Final draft due Thursday, December 12th. Instructions for this study are provided at the end of the syllabus.

Take-Home Mid-Term Examination (15%) – Due Tuesday, October 22nd
The purpose of this exam is to review and integrate what has been learned during the first half of the semester.

Take-Home Final Examination (15%) – Due Thursday, December 12th
The purpose of the final examination is to review and integrate what has been learned in the course.

Required Readings

Books to Purchase

- Helen R. Ebaugh and Janet S. Chafetz, eds. Religion and the New Immigrants, Continuities and Adaptations in Immigrant Congregations (Walnut Creek, Calif.: Alta Mira Press, 2000)

Policies, Rules, and Resources

1. Handing in Assignments: Place all papers in my mailbox in the Religion Department, 107 Anderson Hall. DO NOT slip them under the door or leave them on the door of my office or the department office. Please keep a dated electronic copy of all papers.

2. Late or Make-Up Assignments: You may take an exam early or receive an extension on an exam or essay assignment only in extraordinary circumstances. If possible, please request prior approval from the instructor. If that is not possible, please contact the instructor as soon as possible to arrange for the makeup. If an extension is not granted, the assignment will be marked down 1/3 grade (e.g., from B+ to B) for each day late.
3. Completion of All Assignments: You must complete all written and oral assignments and fulfill the requirement for class participation in order to pass the course. I will not average a grade that is missing any assignment or requirement.

4. Attendance and Participation: Class attendance is required. See Course Requirements above.

5. Common Courtesy: Cell phones should be turned off during class, except in emergencies, when you may set your phone to vibrate so you can receive notifications. Please notify the instructor at the start of class in this situation. You may take notes on a laptop computer, although the instructor may ask you to turn off the computer if circumstances warrant. The instructor and TA reserve the right to ask any student engaging in disruptive behavior (e.g., whispering, reading a newspaper) to leave the class.

6. Honor Code: The honor code applies to this and all courses taken at UF: “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity. On all work submitted for credit by students at the university, the following pledge is either required or implied:

   On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment” (https://archive.catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/1617/advising/info/student-honor-code.aspx).

   The university specifically prohibits cheating, plagiarism, misrepresentation, bribery, conspiracy, and fabrication. Any student(s) demonstrated to have cheated, plagiarized, or otherwise violated the Honor Code in any assignment for this course will fail the course. In addition, violations of the Academic Honesty Guidelines may result in judicial action and sanctions, as specified in the Student Conduct Code (https://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/process/student-conduct-code/).

7. Accommodation for Disabilities: Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Dean of Students Office. The Dean of Students Office will provide documentation to the student, who must then provide this documentation to the Instructor when requesting accommodation.

8. Counseling Resources: Resources available on-campus for students include the following:
   a. University Counseling Center, 301 Peabody Hall, 392-1575, personal and career counseling;
   b. Student Mental Health, Student Health Care Center, 392-1171, personal counseling;
   c. Sexual Assault Recovery Services (SARS), Student Health Care Center, 392-1161, sexual counseling;
   d. Career Resource Center, Reitz Union, 392-1601, career development assistance and counseling.

9. Software Use: All faculty, staff, and students of the University are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against University policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate.

Response Paper for PART ONE: Student Orientations (due Tuesday, September 10th)

In 2-3 pages, give separate answers to the following three questions:
1. Respond to the class on how to study religion by offering your current definition of religion and your argument for why your definition is persuasive.
2. Explain what transnationalism means to you? How does it change our previous understanding of religion as rooted in place?
3. Respond to the classes on the state of research on Global Religions in the United States and Gainesville by identifying one immigrant religious group that particularly interests you and explain why.

PART TWO: INTO THE FIELD
This portion of the course will explore in succession: Latin American (I), Asian (II), Middle Eastern and African (III) new immigrants to the United States and the religious lives they are creating, especially here in Gainesville. In each section we will:
- Overview as needed the beliefs and practices of the religions under study
- Discuss recent ethnographies.
- Assigned student(s) will present and the class will respond to short field reports on Gainesville worship sites for these new immigrants.
- At least once every four classes a member of a Gainesville new immigrant group or their minister will enter into conversation with the class.
- Through this ongoing process we will try to define, explain and understand the implications the arrival of these people and their religions for American culture and society.

[Assignment for PART TWO: Every week one or more students will offer a five page field report following a common structure. Students will be assigned the site they are to visit and report on prior to September 10th]

Field Report Instructions

The purpose of this assignment is for you to describe and seek to explain the worship service of a selected Gainesville new immigrant community and to think about its meaning in a social context. As a participant-observer, you will directly observe the worship of a group of religious practitioners as it unfolds. After the service you will informally interview one or more of the members about their experience of this worship and what it means to them. Try to talk with one person leading the service, but also with ordinary members. Introduce yourself, tell them what you are seeking to learn, and keep the conversation as short as they wish to make it. Don’t take notes during your talk or tape record it. Afterwards, you should draw up an overview of what you saw and heard. This will provide you with detailed notes for your report.

The report’s first task should be DESCRIPTIVE. You should rely mainly on what you saw and what you were told. The report’s second task is INTERPRETIVE. Drawing on class readings to date, discussions, and your own insights, what can you say about the relationship of this group to the larger American society? What are their points of tension and/or accommodation? What is important for others to know about this group and their relationship to American society?

The paper MUST have a thesis and this should be stated in the first paragraph. There is no need to do external research. However, you will need to be clear and concise, selective and organized as a whole. Keep the primary thrust of the report descriptive, bringing in ideas from class where they throw light on the description. Conclude with some ideas about how you see the relationship between the ritual’s meaning and the social setting of their lives and how the community under study relates to the larger American society.

New Immigrant Worship Sites Field Report Visit Schedule
Each student must provide a field report on a group during the week we are studying that group. This means that that visit must take place prior to that week. The report can be oral with the actual written report handed one week after the oral report. Location and contacts for each site will be provided as available.

1) Latin American Baptist, Seventh Day Adventist, Pentecostal, Catholic sites to be visited prior to Tuesday, September 17th
2) Chinese Christian Church, Chinese Gospel Church sites to be visited prior to Tuesday, September 24th
3) Korean Baptist Church to be visited prior to Tuesday, October 1st
4) Vietnamese Temple to be visited prior to Tuesday, October 8th
5) Filipino Baptist Church, Filipino Catholics to be visited prior to Tuesday, October 8th
6) Pan-Asian SALT Church to be visited prior to Tuesday, October 15th
7) Hindu Temples (Devi, BAPS) to be visited prior to Tuesday, October 22nd
8) Muslim Islamic Center or Hoda Center to be visited prior to Tuesday, October 29th
9) Redeemed Christian Church of God to be visited prior to Tuesday, November 5th
10) Greenhouse Church to be visited prior to Tuesday, November 19th

Ethnography Assignment
The ethnography is a more elaborate version of the field report. It must be done on a different immigrant worship site. Like the field report you will again be providing description and interpretation but now you will be going into greater depth. You will visit the worship site more than once to observe and take notes; speak at greater length with more than one participant (share a meal?!); dig deeper into the history of this group and place that history into the context of relevant academic scholarship; and reflect more self-consciously on your own process.

You will be wearing several "hats" for this project. First and foremost, you will be anthropologists who will attend services, conduct interviews with members of the community, and engage in conversations. You will also be historians conducting background research into the history of the denomination and placing this research into the context of contemporary scholarship. And finally, you will be personally reflexive—you will be writing about what you have learned, on a personal level, from your ethnographic research.

I'd like to see the following components in your paper:

1.) A thick description of the community and place of worship. Provide your reader with a rich understanding of the religious life of the place of worship. Provide details: what does the place look like? Who attends services there? What are members of the congregation like?
What kinds of religious art is on the walls? Other visuals? Provide details—bring your reader into the lived religious world.

2.) Historical contextualization of the community. For example, if you are researching a Pentecostal church, do research to help you make sense of what is going on with the immigrant religious group you are studying. I'd like to see you incorporate at least five academic sources, using a combination of books and articles, into your paper to give context to your ethnographic work. You can use and incorporate the sources we read for class as well—these "count" towards the five sources.

3.) An analysis of how the issues of ethnicity and religion, gender, and the second generation come into play both in worship and the immigrants’ ordinary lives. This is the more theoretical part of your paper and where you can draw on our class conversations and readings.

4.) Authorial reflexivity: I want to know how you felt while conducting research for your paper. What did you learn from your role as an ethnographer? How did you try to bridge the divide between your role as an ethnographer and that of your just being another human sharing notes on your understandings of the world.

First draft due electronically to every class member Tuesday, November 26th.
Peer review in class Tuesday, December 2nd.
Final draft due Thursday, December 12th.

RUBRIC FOR ETHNOGRAPHY

Content
Excellent: The paper offers a direct and persuasive response to the topic; strong evidence is provided and treated with complexity; the paper exhibits excellent understandings and critical evaluations of sources
Good: The essay responds to the topic; it selects relevant evidence and presents it clearly; it chooses relevant sources and uses them appropriately
Satisfactory: The paper exhibits at least some evidence of ideas that respond to the topic; it provides adequate discussion with basic understanding of sources
Poor: The paper does not respond to the topic; does not use appropriate sources and/or does not understand them accurately

Organization and Coherence
Excellent: The paper is clearly organized around a strong thesis statement; arguments follow a logical progression leading to a persuasive conclusion
Good: The paper has a logical organization and builds to the conclusion in a way that is easy for the reader to follow
Satisfactory: The paper as a whole and individual paragraphs shows some identifiable structure for topics, including a clear thesis statement but may require readers to work to follow progression of ideas
Poor: The paper is disorganized and difficult to follow; there is no clear thesis that organizes the arguments; transitions are lacking

Argument and Support
Excellent: The essay uses persuasive and confident presentation of ideas, strongly supported with evidence from well-chosen, clearly documented sources
Good: The paper presents ideas clearly and supports them with evidence that is relevant to the topic and well-documented
Satisfactory: Papers provide generalized discussion of ideas and adequate discussion and rely on some support for arguments
Poor/unsatisfactory: Documents make only weak generalizations, providing little or no support; summaries and narratives do not provide critical analysis

Style
Excellent: Word choice is complex and appropriate to the context, genre, and discipline. The essay as a whole displays complexity and logical sentence structure; the narrative flows clearly and is easy for the reader to follow.
Good: Word choice is appropriate to the context, genre, and discipline. Readers are able to follow the arguments without trouble.
Satisfactory: The paper displays a generally accurate use of vocabulary and correct sentence structure; writing style is mostly appropriate to the context, genre, and discipline
Poor/unsatisfactory: The paper uses words that are inappropriate for the context, genre, or discipline. Documents may also use words incorrectly.

Mechanics
Excellent: Sentences use correct grammar, punctuation, and spelling.
Good: Papers will feature correct or error-free presentation of ideas, with no significant mistakes in grammar, spelling, and punctuation.
Satisfactory: Grammar, spelling, and punctuation are generally correct. Papers may contain some spelling, punctuation, or grammatical errors that remain unobtrusive so they do not muddy the paper’s argument or points.
Poor/unsatisfactory: Papers contain so many mechanical or grammatical errors that they impede the reader’s understanding or severely undermine the writer’s credibility
