Course Description
This course offers a critical survey of Muslim belief and ritual in historical perspective. Yet, Muslims have not always used the word, “Islam,” to refer to the constellation of ideas and practices elaborated and embodied by the Prophet Muhammad and the early believers. This course unpacks the modern construction of Islam as religion, but also introduces students to Muslim doctrines, devotional acts, and socio-cultural institutions. To that end, we will read about the Islamic religious tradition from a number of thematic angles: community, historical self-consciousness, scripture, memory, theology, sectarianism, law and jurisprudence, mystical experience and practice, gender, sexuality, race and racialization, and secularity as well as globalization. In this way, we will use various crucial themes to survey key characteristics of Muslim experiences from late antiquity to modern times. At the same time, we will also study issues of representation and translation in Islamic studies. This course therefore brings two objects of study under critical scrutiny: “Islam” (by studying various accounts by and about Muslims) and “Islamic studies” (by studying various representations of “Islam” within multiple disciplinary frameworks, including religious studies, history, cultural anthropology, area studies, and political science).

General Education Objectives
This course is a Humanities (H) and International (N) subject area course in the UF General Education Program. Humanities courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and theory or methodologies used within a humanities discipline or the humanities in general. Students will learn to identify and to analyze the key elements, biases and influences that shape thought. These courses emphasize clear and effective analysis and approach issues and problems from multiple perspectives. International courses promote the development of students’ global and intercultural awareness. Students examine the cultural, economic, geographic, historical, political, and/or social experiences and processes that characterize the contemporary world, and thereby comprehend the trends, challenges, and opportunities that affect communities around the world. Students analyze and reflect on the ways in which cultural, economic, political, and/or social systems and beliefs mediate their own and other people’s understanding of an increasingly connected world.

These General Education Objectives will be accomplished through:
- Reading about the history of Islam as a tradition of faith and ritual, and the diversity of its expressions in the modern period
- Examining popular perceptions, misperceptions, and gaps in understanding with reference to Islam and Muslims
- Assessing how knowledge production about Islam and Muslims is informed by various disciplinary locations and political motivations
- Reflecting on the implications of Muslims’ internal diversity and discussing issues of representation as well as translation

At the end of this course, students will be expected to have achieved the following learning outcomes in content, communication, and critical thinking:
- Content: Students will have knowledge of the long history of Islam—its beginnings in Near Eastern religious, social, political, economic, and cultural settings, its evolution as a multi-faceted religious tradition, its entanglements in various political designs, its relationship with its religious and political others, the different ways in which Muslim thought and practice has changed in modernity, particularly in relation to European colonialism, and some of the key challenges Muslims face in today’s world.
- Communication: Students will be able to communicate their reasoned perspectives to others with clarity and openness to dialogue, in both speech and writing. They will be encouraged to listen attentively and compassionately to others and to consider a wide range of perspectives before making up their own minds.
- Critical Thinking: Students will be able to examine their own as well as others’ biases when it comes to speaking and thinking about religion. They will try their best to avoid generalizing statements, reductive views, stereotyping gestures, and essentialist claims. They will be able to assess the rhetorical value of different types of evidence and sources.

Required Text: Daniel W. Brown, A New Introduction to Islam
All Other Readings Will be Posted on Canvas (UF e-learning)

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION—15% (150 POINTS)

Class attendance is expected, and will be taken at the beginning of each class session. You can miss two lecture sessions and one Friday discussion session without penalty. Each additional unexcused absence will detract 50 points from your grade. Excused absences are consistent with university policies as listed in the undergraduate catalog (https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx) and require appropriate documentation. Class will begin and end on time. Five late arrivals (anything over 5 minutes) will be considered one absence.

MEETING WITH THE INSTRUCTOR—5% (50 POINTS)

Each student will meet with the instructor for 15 minutes during the first three weeks. This meeting will give the instructor a better sense of students’ educational and intellectual needs. It will also give students a better sense of the instructor’s pedagogical commitments and expectations. Students will sign-up for this meeting on the first day of class. Alternatively, they may also email the instructor to schedule a meeting outside of office hours.

5 READING QUIZZES—40% (400 POINTS AS EACH QUIZ IS WORTH 100 POINTS; YOUR LOWEST SCORE WILL BE DROPPED)

The reading quizzes will take place on Fridays during the break-out session with Zachary Faircloth. He will both design and grade the quizzes. The quizzes will test students’ knowledge of content and their critical thinking and analyzing skills, and will therefore use a range of various question forms, such as T/F, multiple choice, fill-in-the-blanks, and questions requiring 2-3 sentences of composition or an entire short essay. If a student would like to express concern with reference to a grade given on a quiz, he/she/they should first discuss it with Zachary. If the concern is not addressed, then please see the instructor.

REFLECTION PAPER—10% (100 POINTS)—Due Tuesday 3 December by Midnight
The reflection paper will enable students to examine their learning process in this course. More instructions and a sample reflection paper will be posted on Canvas a month prior to the due date. The reflection essays will be graded by the instructor.

FINAL EXAM — 30% (300 POINTS) — Friday 13 December 10AM-12PM

The final exam will be cumulative of all class readings. It will consist of T/F, multiple choice, and fill-in-the-blanks questions, as well as questions requiring 2-3 sentences of composition or an entire short essay. The final exam will be graded by the instructor.

Late work will not be accepted. A makeup quiz and makeup final exam will be provided for students who miss either due to extreme, documented circumstances. Students should arrange with the instructor for makeup material.

Class Demeanor

Students are expected to arrive to class on time and behave in a manner that is respectful to the instructor and to fellow students. Please avoid the use of cell phones and restrict eating to outside of the classroom. Opinions held by other students should be respected in discussion, and conversations that do not contribute to the discussion should be held at minimum, if at all. The use of laptops or tables is only allowed for purpose of note-taking.

Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/.

Students Requiring Accommodations
Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

University Honesty Policy
UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” The Honor Code (https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.
