Course Description
Women and Religion explores the lives of women in multiple religious traditions, including Judaism, Hinduism, Christianity, Islam, and Buddhism. Using memoirs, science fiction, and ethnographic accounts, among other things, we will consider how women understand their role in their own traditions and how women work within their traditions in response to contemporary social contexts. The class begins with readings that situate Women and Religion within larger academic and social conversations so that we have the tools to discuss a range of issues, including gender, authority, reflexivity, and sustainability.

Course Requirements and Assignments
All assignment must be completed to pass the course.

1. Attendance and participation in class discussions and activities, including timely and close reading of all assigned texts, is required. (5% of final grade).

2. Group project: Students will develop collaborative projects that demonstrate some aspect of women’s religious experience. This project gives students the opportunity to explore topics of interest, e.g., food, the body, ritual practice in more detail. More detailed information will be provided early in the semester. (15% of grade).

3. Essays (30%)
Two individual essays (4-5 double-spaced pages, 1000 words each). The first draft should both be submitted to Canvas AND brought to class for feedback and discussion. First draft – 3 points; final version – 12 points.* Each essay will be worth 15% (or 15 points) of your final grade (30% total).

The first paper will focus on Miriam’s Kitchen and Politics of Piety; and the second paper will explore the relationship between gender, nature, and new religious movements.

4. First Hour Exam (25% of grade).

5. Second Hour Exam (25% of grade).
This exam will integrate readings and material, focusing on the second half of the semester.
*Consistent with the standards of the University Writing Requirement, the instructor will evaluate and provide feedback on the student's written assignments with respect to grammar, punctuation, usage of standard written English, clarity, coherence, and organization. (See below for grading rubric)

University Writing Requirement (formerly known as the Gordon Rule) –
This course counts for University Writing Rule 2 credit (2000 words).

The University Writing Requirement ensures students both maintain their fluency in writing and use writing as a tool to facilitate learning. Course grades now have two components. To receive writing credit, a student must receive a grade of C or higher and a satisfactory completion of the writing component of the course.

The instructor will evaluate and provide feedback on the student's written assignments with respect to grammar, punctuation, usage of standard written English, clarity, coherence, and organization. Students will receive a grade and corrections on their work. Students will be graded according to the following rubric:

Assessment:
1.) What type of feedback will be provided to the student (in reference to writing skill)?

   ___X___ Grade ___X___ Corrections ______Drafts ______Other

2.) Will a published rubric be used? Yes (see below)
