Supporting Documents

In order to receive credit for a “non-approved” course, you must demonstrate that the content of the course was at least 50% about gender, sexuality, etc. Generally, a copy of the syllabus (it must be from the semester in which you were enrolled in the class) is the best way to demonstrate adequate gender content. In the past, students without their syllabuses have brought in the actual reading materials, papers, tests, etc. from the class. If you will need to do this, contact the UGC for an appointment.
